Clarence B. Randall, Chairman of the Board of Inland Steel Company of Chicago and Chairman of the U.S. Commission on Foreign Economic Policy, will be the principal commencement speaker at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's 88th graduation exercises on June 11. The baccalaureate address on June 10 will be delivered by Gilbert A. Hight, Professor of Greek and Latin at Columbia University.

A noted industrialist and business statesman, Mr. Randall practiced law for several years before joining the Inland Steel Company in 1925. He became president of the firm in 1949 and chairman of the board in 1953. Last year he was appointed by President Eisenhower to head the Commission on Foreign Economic Policy, a group directed to investigate, synthesize, and recommend policy for the whole scale of U.S. world-wide economic relations.

Mr. Randall's civic activities have included service as general chairman of the Chicago Community and War Fund Campaign, director of the National War Fund, and steel consultant for the Economic Cooperation Administration in Paris. A graduate of Harvard University, where he was Godkin lecturer in 1938, Mr. Randall holds honorary degrees from Michigan College of Mining and Technology and Northeastern University. He is a past president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and is the author of two recent books, "A Creed for Free Enterprise" and "Freedom's Faith."

Professor Hight is a native of Glasgow, Scotland, and received advanced degrees at Glasgow and Oxford universities. A fellow and tutor in the classics at St. John's College, Oxford, Professor Hight first came to the United States in 1937-38 as visiting associate in the classics at Columbia University. He was appointed professor of Latin in 1950.

During World War II he served successively with the British mission in the United States and Canada; with the British Army; and, as Lieutenant-Colonel, with the military government in Germany. The author of "An Outline of Homer," "Beginning Latin," "The Classical Tradition," and "Man's Unconquerable Mind"; articles on ancient and modern satire; literary criticism; and parodies of contemporary writers, Professor Hight is also noted for his extensive translations.
